

Top 40 Signs You Are A Bad Airman

1. You think CDC stands for Complete in a Decade Course
2. You consider the Government Visa an early out program
3. Your flight chief issues you a signature stamp for your upcoming Article 15's
4. Your commander's doormat has your name sewn under "Welcome"
5. Your reason for showing up late is that Mickey Mouse's hands looked about the same length
6. You usually check your mail at the First Sergeant's office
7. You affectionately refer to your BDU's as pajamas
8. The words VOLUME ONE are written on your UIF at the MPF
9. Your reporting official calls the legal office for help in writing your EPR
10. The people at your retirement rehearsal simply wave good-bye
11. You think under-21 alcohol prohibition is a drinking game
12. You're taken off the Weight Management Program because you have a waiver from Hostess
13. You think the Recall roster is more difficult than the periodic table of elements in chemistry
14. You search the back cover of the PFE for the DWI ribbon
15. You're ecstatic because you haven't heard any rumors lately better than the ones about you
16. The SP's have a code name for your dorm room
17. Your case file is used Air Force wide to train First Sergeants and Commanders
18. The Legal Office uses you as a benchmark for discharge actions
19. You know more about completing Article 15 paperwork than your First Sergeant
20. BMTS is considered using you as a guest speaker to scare recruits straight
21. When other people on base get in trouble, they compare their case to yours to receive lighter punishment
22. You have reserved parking at the Correctional Custody facility
23. You carry extra "certified true" finger print copies to speed-up processing
24. You call your First Sergeant late at night so often that you can carry on a conversation with his wife or kids until he's available to come to the phone
25. Jerry Springer won't have your type on his show

26. You consider new Commanders a short-term problem
27. You've been promoted 6 times and you're still an SrA
28. Your stripes are velcroed on - saves time and eliminates that nasty halo effect
29. You've been the squadron's lowest ranking airman on 4 separate occasions during the past three years
30. If you've been good for the whole month, your supervisor and First Sergeant get a three-day pass
31. You're happy the Air Force came out with the new Nations Bank Visa Card because you had reached your credit limit on the Government American Express
32. Air Force Aid won't return your calls
33. The Security Police named a drug dog after you
34. The Correctional Custody staff bought you a Christmas gift to ensure you'd get one this year
35. Your goal is to one day attend the prestigious Airman Leadership School- provided you stay in the service that long
36. You're hoping to get a basic Good Conduct Medal as a going-away; even if it's only a gag gift
37. You're concerned that the excessive white space on your referral EPR might hurt your promotion opportunity
38. You don't know jack about your primary AFSC, but have gotten so good with MPF special actions casework that you're considering cross-training
39. Your unit tried to trade you for a BBQ grill until the legal Office got involved
40. You've helped eliminate a bunch of the legal loopholes involving DWI cases

BONUS: The SP's had to get a legal finding to see if you could be charged with being terminally stupid!!